

LAYARD

Programa de Aceleración Inmobiliaria Alsea

Structured Private Credit backed by Corporate Lease Flows and Real Estate Collateral

1. The Core Thesis

Convert Alsea's credit quality into a scalable real estate financing platform.

Layard has developed a structured private credit platform designed to accelerate the expansion of Alsea's real estate footprint by financing institutional landlords.

- Alsea wants faster expansion
- Landlords lack scalable capital access
- Institutional investors seek yield + downside protection
- Mexico lacks a mature CTL-style market

2. The Problem

The bottleneck is NOT consumer demand, brand strength or Alsea's balance sheet.

The real bottleneck is landlord access to scalable development capital.

3. The Solution

Accelerated expansion without direct debt for Alsea.

Layard originates structured private credit facilities to qualified Alsea landlords.

Capital is used for:

- acquiring real estate
- developing locations
- preparing sites for Alsea occupancy

Core components:

- FICAPI
- lockbox
- fiduciary structure
- interest-only financing

4. Why Investors Care

Yield + downside protection + real assets.

- Attractive yield
- Real estate collateral
- Corporate-linked lease cash flow
- Inflation protection
- Long-duration predictable income
- Fiduciary protections

5. Why Alsea Wins

- Faster store deployment
- Off-balance-sheet structure
- No incremental financial debt
- Reduced real estate bottlenecks
- Higher-quality landlord base

6. Why Landlords Win

- Interest-only financing
- Faster portfolio expansion
- Reduced vacancy risk
- Long-term lease visibility
- Preservation of ownership

7. International Validation

Layard adapts CTL principles to Mexico.

Comparable global references:

- STORE Capital

This category already manages hundreds of billions globally.

8. Structural Protection

- Real estate collateral
- Lockbox structure
- Long-term lease agreements
- Inflation-linked rents
- Fiduciary protections
- Conservative collateral coverage

9. Pilot Transaction

- MXN $200M–$350M initial structure
- 5–8 new Alsea locations
- Institutional landlords
- Validation of legal structure and investor appetite

10. Long-Term Vision

Structured Capital for Corporate Expansion Infrastructure.

Build Mexico's leading CTL-inspired structured real estate credit platform.

Future opportunities:

- insurance capital
- pension funds
- co-investment vehicles
- securitized structures
